Prank fire call demonstrates need for central phone system

A prank phone call made to the Stanhope Township Fire Department has served to underscore the need for a central telephone system that could answer for all the fire departments in the county.

Ann Barker, who is one of the people responsible for answering fire calls in Stanhope, said she recently received a call indicating there was a fire at the general store in Lochlin.

That part of the county is not served by the Stanhope Department, so Barker relayed the message to the Minden Fire Department, which does provide fire protection to that area.

Barker told Stanhope council that the delays caused by all this confusion amounted to about 20 to 30 minutes, which is a great deal of time in the early stages of a fire. Fortunately for the store owners, the call was a false alarm.

Haliburton County is served by numerous fire departments, each with its own emergency phone system. Although there is mutual aid agreement among the various fire departments, they are not allowed to respond to a fire outside their own boundaries unless there is a request from the fire department that serves the area where the fire is located.

Building boom

Few people will be surprised that new construction in Anson, Hindon and Minden will hit an all-time high this year, but the extent of the increase has to come as a shock.

With three months still to go before the year end, the value of new construction has almost doubled last year's record high. Chief Building Official Brad Bradamore presented a statistical report to council last Thursday showing the value of construction to the end of September had amounted to almost $9.3-million.

This is a tremendous increase over last year's total of $5.5-million, which was a record in itself.

Although construction

activity will likely taper off in the next few months, council noted that the new Home Hardware and Home/All project has not yet been figured into the statistics. This project alone is expected to be worth about $1.5-million.

With a floor space of over 30,000 square feet, the Minden Home Hardware store will be the second largest in all of Canada, according to John Pentney, store owner. The first step in the construction of the building began two weeks ago when footings were poured and block laying was started. An impression of the size of the building can be gained by realizing the workmen in the foreground are laying blocks for one corner of the new retail outlet, while a fellow worker in the background is standing at the other corner. This huge project will add substantially to the building boom which is already almost doubled last year's.

Five in running for school board

There will be an election race for the three openings on the school board for trustees from Anson, Hindon and Minden Townships.

By late last week, five candidates had confirmed their intentions of seeking one of the three seats on the Haliburton County Board of Education. These candidates include incumbent trustees John Cooper and Wendy Ladurantaye. Other candidates include Mary Anne Wilson, Wayne Cox and Wally Bunn. The deadline for nomination is 5 p.m. today (Monday).

Recently, the board decided to increase Minden's representation from two trustees to three. During debate on this issue, though, a number of trustees expressed fear that there would not be enough interest from this municipality to fill all three openings. Fortunately, those fears can now be dismissed.

Nesbitt will run again

Anson, Hindon and Minden Reeve Sinc Nesbitt ended weeks of speculation last Wednesday when he announced he will be running again for Reeve in the November 14 municipal elections.

Nesbitt said the present council has made great strides in the past three years by encouraging growth. One of the major accomplishments this council has made is the reconstruction of the Bobcaygeon Road north of the Gull River bridge.

In spite of the accomplishments of the past three years, Nesbitt says he hopes to be re-elected in order that he can fulfill more of his long-term goals for the municipality. One of these goals is to promote economic growth by making a genuine effort to attract new business to the area. The potential of attracting big business here is limited, he said, but there is a good chance of attracting a number of small businesses.

One of the most apparent problems this area faces is providing jobs for young people. A lot has been done to assist the many seniors in the County and now it is time to help the younger generation, Nesbitt said.

By late last week, Nesbitt was the only candidate in the running for the Reeve's chair. Bern Berry has announced his intention to seek re-election as Deputy Reeve.

Confusion

One of the first issues that should be dealt with once the municipal elections have passed is that of the total confusion created by the lack of a central dispatch system for the county's several fire departments.

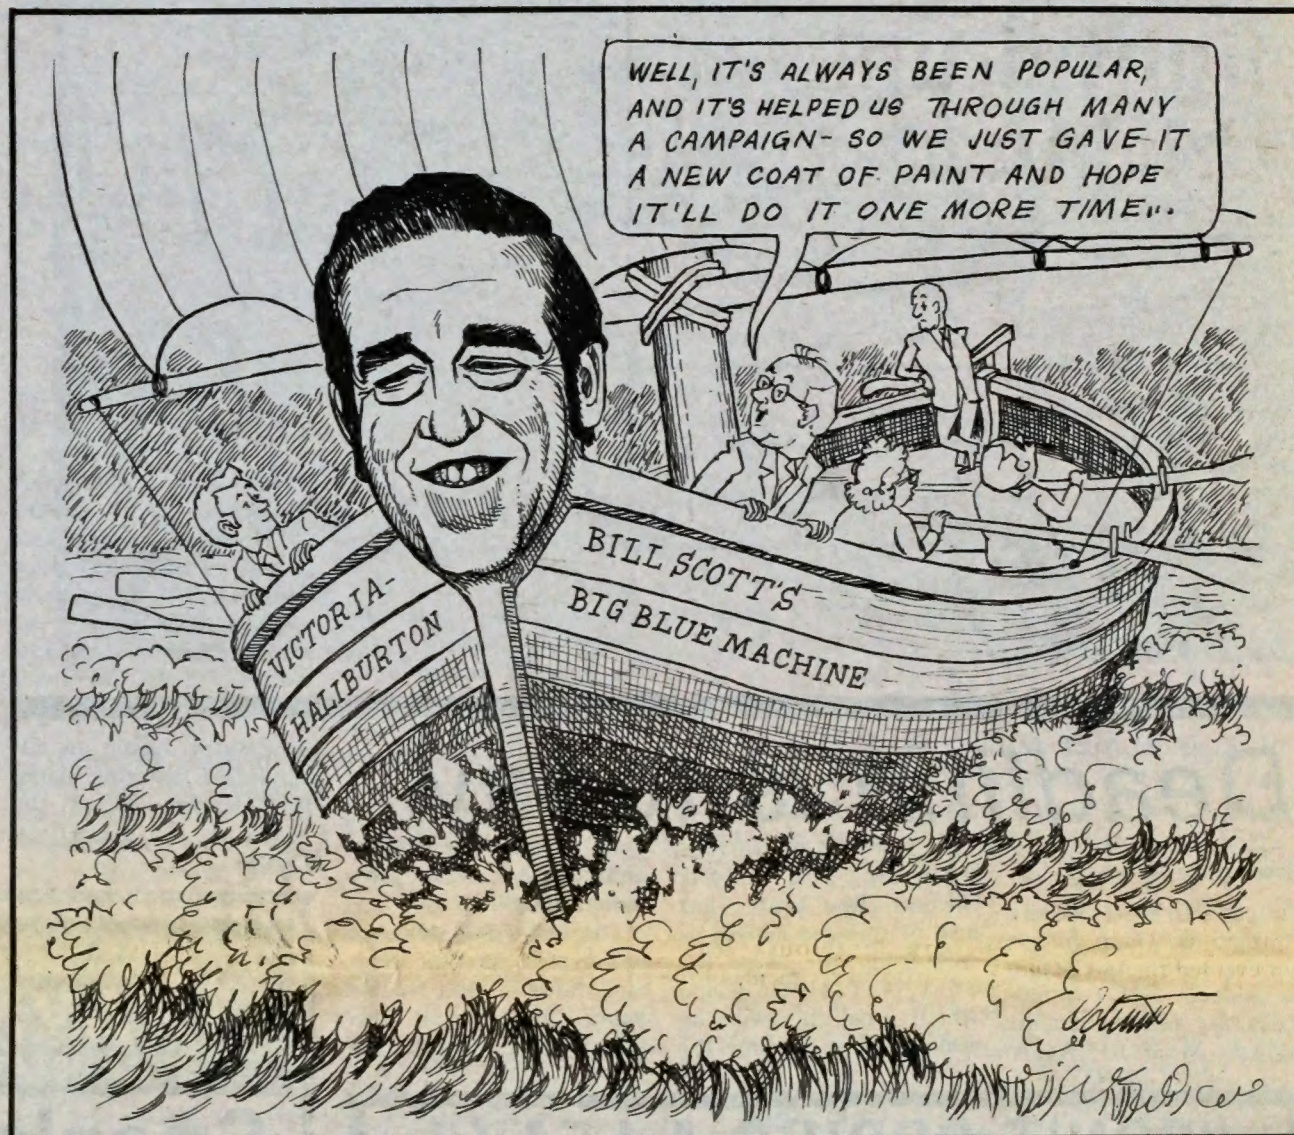

In the last week, there have been two occasions where response time by fire crews was delayed because the wrong department was contacted. In one case, it was a false alarm. However, Mary Revoy of Little Gull Lake was not so fortunate when her house was destroyed in a blaze in the early morning of October 9.

In both of these cases, the person calling in the alarm made contact with a fire department that does not serve the area in question. Therefore, a second call had to be made, and precious minutes were lost. We are not saying the delay was the reason that firefighters could not save Revoy's house. However, it certainly didn't help matters either.

We feel that Haliburton County has a number of well-trained fire crews serving the individual municipalities. However, there is a great deal of room for improvement in the emergency telephone system.

Currently the local ambulance department is dispatched from Lindsay. The OPP office phones are not manned after 1 a.m. and the fire departments all have their own dispatchers.

There has to be a better way of organizing all of this.

Olympic egos, greed dominates

At last!

The Games of XXIVth Olympiad are finally shrinking in the rear view mirror. Good riddance. And that's not just another pair of Canuck mukluks schlumping through 100 metres of sour grapes, either.

These Games had the faint reek of putrefaction about them long before Ben Johnson's radioactive urine sample gave new meaning to the term 'dope testing'. Somehow in the Seoul Olympics, the greed was more naked, the egos more bloated, the selfishness and arrogance more obvious and unapologetic.

And it wasn't just the athletes. I'm pretty sure that television set some new Olympic records - most notably in the Greatest-Volume-Of-Commercials-Crammed-Down-Viewers-Throats Category. One newspaper cartoon showed a fluorescent-blazered, alabaster-toothed jock anchorman beaming out of a TV set and crooning "And we'll be back with more commercials right after this brief Olympic break." More truth than humour in that. Living rooms around the world were awash with endless ads for Toshiba, Hyundai and MacDonalds to name but three. And what do lap-top computers, hatchback sedans and fast-food burgers have to do with Olympic ideals?

Unintentionally candid TV coverage revealed unseemly clots of jock journalists and photo hounds scrambling and swarming after contestants like blood-crazed schools of piranha. I saw one elderly and fragile-looking Korean gent get blindsided and bunted into a market stall by a TV crew chasing down an American high jumper. Koreans must be asking themselves if the price tag of international glory necessarily includes harassment from packs of ravaging media mongrels armed with Sonys and Nikons.

black 'n white

by Arthur Black

Inevitably, the Me-Firstism of the Olympics washed onto the field. We saw it when Ben Johnson first got to Seoul, disdaining to carry Canada's flag or even join the Canadian team in the opening ceremonies. "I've been through the marching experience before" Johnson explained. "I got to take care of myself."

The ever-loathsome American legman, Carl Lewis, strutting and preening like a cross between a peacock and a drag queen, was so revolting even the Americans nearly disowned him. Lewis's shrieks and tantrums and ridiculous demands for special treatment very nearly got him thrown off the U.S. 400-metre relay team. Lewis, in his quintessentially classy way, retorted that he might refuse to run for the team because the coaches were "making too many strict rules." Swedish tennis star Mats Wilander declined to represent his country because he was "too tired".

Somehow, I don't think these spoiled brats are the kind of models the original Greek Olympians would have admired.

Not all the athletes behaved like petulant and pampered five-year-olds, but even the nice ones seemed to be operating under a strangely skewed set of values. Carolyn Waldo, our synchronized swim champ, performed with grace and style in and out of the chlorine, but early in the games she revealed what she considered to be the Achilles Heel in her program.

"I don't have a really good smile" she told reporters. "I'm going to have to work on it to make it warm and sincere."

Somehow, that sentence encapsulates the queasy feeling I have about the whole XXIVth Olympiad. Reminds me of the story of a veteran salesman passing tips to a younger colleague.

Sincerity, lad!" rumbled the old pro. "Learn to look your client right in the eye in a spirit of total honesty."

Pause.

"Once you learn to fake that, you've got it made."

The irony is, neither Ben Johnson nor you nor I would have had to endure the ignominy of Seoul if we'd heeded the words of a veteran Canadian sportsman who, years ago, said "We should stop preaching about sport's moral values. Sport, after all, isn't Lent. It's a pleasure of the flesh."

The man knew whereof he spoke. He was a pretty fair Canadian runner in his own right.

Province ups spending to fight drunk driving

by John Eakins, M.P.P.

Drinking and driving don't mix! This is the message that our government wants to stress to Ontario's drivers and passengers. I am pleased to say that your provincial government will provide $600,000 over the next two years to community groups and high school student organizations fighting against drinking and driving.

The work of community organizations and student groups is vital to the success of Ontario's fight to reduce drinking and driving. These groups have demonstrated that they know how to reach out to their communities and schools with effective programs. Their work has prevented the loss of many lives and saved the taxpayer millions of dollars. The creation of this grant program underscores the fact that the Government of Ontario is committed to using resources in our communities to help change public attitudes about drinking and driving.

The fund was created to support community efforts now underway, to provide seed money to those wishing to start a group, and to create new activities and events that will focus public attention on the impaired driving issue. Individual high school groups may apply for grants of up to $1,000 to support plans scheduled for the 1988-89 school year.

Those interested in applying for funding are invited to contact the Drinking/Driving Countermeasures Office at (416) 965-7145 in order to obtain applications for funding. Completed applications for the program must be received no later than October 31, 1988.

On another note, the Premier's Awards for Accessibility are presented annually to honour excellence and innovation in the design of barrier-free buildings and environment conducive to the accessibility by all physically challenged persons.

In previous years, successful recipients of the Premier's Awards for Accessibility were restricted to participating structural architects and landscape architects. However this year, engineers and designers are now also eligible for these awards.

Entries will be judged by a panel of five eminent design professionals and the awards will be presented in Toronto in the spring of 1989. The deadline for this year's entries is October 30, 1988. For brochures and applications please contact the Office for Disabled Persons at 1-800-387-4456.

Red tails master effortless motion

by Marion Strebeg

Federation of Ontario Naturalists

Yesterday was clear, bright, almost windless, and the Red-tailed and Broad-winged hawks were moving. By mid-morning when the sun had warmed the air, they were soaring, wings almost motionless as they rode the rising thermals. One Red-tailed Hawk which was just gaining height passed not far above tree level, its rufous tail glowing in the sun. Most of the rest were merely black silhouettes, or so high they vanished into the empyrean. From now until November most hawks will be on the move westward around Lake Ontario and Lake Erie avoiding the long lake crossing.

Watching for events as regular as this annual fall hawk migration has always seemed to me the best way of keeping track of time. There is reassurance in its inevitability. Each season has regular signs like this which mark the hours of nature's clock. In keeping with this view of time the Federation of Ontario Naturalists has produced a 1989 calendar which is set to the natural history of the seasons.

The page for each month is divided into two sections. The bottom section is a conventional calendar, but the upper section is filled with information and drawings about what activities in nature are going on each month. For instance the upper half of September contains flight drawings of the eight species of hawks which breed in Ontario. September means movement for other creatures. According to the calendar spiders are also moving to new territory on silken parachutes.

The entries and drawings for any month are entertaining and informative. This is not a calendar you will discard when 1990 is rung in. The solitary starling perched atop the January calendar is resting beside a caption which describes huge winter "slumber parties" of roosting starlings. To find out why turn to January in your calendar.

In March a flock of migrating geese fly across the page and the calendar calls attention to the spawning runs of fish. The commonest of these is the white sucker. Above, in the picture and information half of the month, owls dominate. The melting snow reveals the runways of meadow voles, a staple in the owls' diet. While the meadow vole scurries over his caption, a Long-eared Owl makes itself even

Windmills dot the countryside north of Minden, Germany

Publisher of the Minden Times, Jack Brezina, was among 44 area residents who recently travelled to Minden, Germany to visit the city from which this community's name was taken. The group left Minden September 23 and returned October 9 after a four day visit in Minden, Germany and a tour of other sights in Europe. In this first of three reports, Jack Brezina describes some of the sights the group saw while travelling north of the sister city.

Windmills bring to mind thoughts of the Dutch coast along the North Sea. However, as a group of 44 travellers from Minden discovered recently, these ancient mechanical devices used to harness the energy of the wind are not limited to the Netherlands.

The discovery was made on the group's first full day of touring near Minden, Germany. The night before we had arrived in the Minden area after our overnight flight to Frankfurt. Our hosts had thoughtfully organized a very brief welcoming at the hotel, and after providing us with orientation brochures and words of welcome, they sent the weary group of travellers scrambling for a much needed rest.

The next morning we headed north out of Minden, Germany. Here the land is relatively flat, with low rolling hills marking the slow descent to the German coastline some 180 kilometres away. Many of the fields we passed were still green with crops, but it was obvious from the activities on the farms that the fall harvest had already begun. Thick ranks of corn, destined for animal feed, still stood in the fields, while acres of potatoes, turnips and other root crops were being collected.

We were told it had been a very good year for fruit trees. Small orchards and individual trees hung heavy with their ripening bounty of apples and pears. Herds of Holstein cows were interspersed among the field crops while enormous pigs could be seen lolling about in the farm yards.

The farms, though smaller than those in Southern Ontario, appeared prosperous and active. Modern machinery could be seen at work in the fields and parked beside the sturdy brick barns. Overall the land was reminiscent of a rural scene in the Cannington area north of Oshawa.

Leading the way

Our guide for the day was Dr. Gerhard Franke, a doctor of philosophy and education instructor. He also holds the volunteer position as overseer of the historic buildings and sites in the Minden-Lubbecke region (the county surrounding the city of Minden). Fluent in English, he was a knowledgeable and enthusiastic interpreter of the area's history.

There are 37 restored mills in the area around the city of Minden. Included in this number are several watermills, mills operated by horsepower as well as the traditional windmills.

Windmills like this one, dot the countryside north of Minden, Germany. Many have been faithfully restored and are operational, though rarely used. The Minden residents who visited Germany last month had an opportunity to tour the interior of the mill and observe the wooden mechanisms powered by the large sails. This particular mill had to be turned to face into the wind. The long pole, at the right of the photo, provided the leverage needed for a team of oxen or horses to reposition the structure.

Most of the mills date back at least 300 years. Dr. Franke explained that in the early days, a miller was not considered a reputable businessman. He took, as his fee for services, a portion of the crop to the mill for grinding. The amount was always at the whim of the miller, and was apparently never made clear to the owner of the crop.

Our first stop was at a windmill just outside of the city. Built in 1657, the massive oak beams which framed the interior were a testament to the mighty forests which once covered this part of Europe. This mill was of particular interest in that the miller had to adjust the mill so that it was always facing into the wind. This was accomplished by means of a long, rudder-like pole which stretched downward from the raised windmill. When the wind changed direction, the miller would attach a series of pulleys or team of oxen or horses to the pole and turn the entire windmill to face the wind.

Our next stop was a watermill at the village of Dohren. Built in 1721, the mill used the power of a small stream to turn a wheel and the grinding wheels inside the structure. A popular German choir had gathered at the mill that morning, for a photographic session at the mill site. Their visit had obviously been co-ordinated with our own, and after an explanation of the history of the mill, the group and director was introduced and they sang a number of German folk songs for us.

Before leaving the watermill, the miller and his family treated us to a morning bracer. The plates included pickled herring, cheeses and pate, served with several varieties of the local schnaps.

We then travelled to Rahden where the County of Minden-Lubbeck were our hosts for a luncheon of thick pea soup, sausages and tasty German beer. During the meal, the Warden of the County, Heinrich Borchering, welcomed us officially. He presented the group with a colourful book showing the many windmills located in the Minden area. (This book will be available to the public at the Minden Library. The text is in German.)

Adjacent to the restaurant is an historic park in which buildings had been restored representing a farm setting several centuries previous. Dr. Franke provided the expert commentary as we toured the structures, examining the artifacts and obtaining an appreciation for early rural life in Germany. The combination house and barn was of particular interest. According to Dr. Franke, the barn, with the living quarters attached at one end was the centre of rural life in Germany. Animals and the family shared the central floor area of the barn where the daily routines were carried out. Separate sleeping quarters and stalls kept the animal and human occupants of the building apart at night, but the shared roof was indicative of the interdependence of those early rural days.

Among the interesting items on display pointed out by Dr. Franke was a steel cage-like device which could be lowered over the open floor hearth at the one end of the building. The cage was used to provide a barrier between the flames and the house cats. A cat with fur aflame would soon set the building, filled with straw and hay, alight if it ventured too close to the flames of the fire. Above the fire pit hangs traditional German sausages gently being cured by the smoke drifting from the fire. No chimney was installed and the smoke filled the upper reaches of the building, fumigating the crops in storage.

The tour of the park concluded with a visit to a number of other buildings, including a mill operated by animal power. Horses or oxen pulling a pole in a circular route would provide the same driving force as falling water or a steady wind did at other mills.

One more windmill awaited our inspection on the first day of the tour. This traditional windmill was built in 1611 in Sudhemmern. Its four large blades can be trimmed with canvas sails or boards to match the weather conditions of the day. The proud miller climbed the lattice like covering of the blades to demonstrate how the sails could be installed. Following the demonstration, in damp and cool conditions, we joined the miller and his staff in the snug cellar under the mill for an afternoon snack of pate, cheese, apple cake, coffee and samples of the local schnaps.

Ever since the start of our visit to Germany, the members of the tour had reacted with surprise and pleasure to the neat and trim appearance of the properties seen from the bus window. Inevitably every balcony and windowsill was trimmed with a box of flowers spilling out of their container in a cascade of colour. The yards were always neat and trim, again with splashes of colourful flowers or well-worked vegetable gardens. It was rare to see a cluttered yard or a home in need of paint. The owners obviously took a great deal of pride in the appearance of their property and worked hard to maintain it.

The bus brought us back to our hotel in Minden.

Dr. Gerhard Franke points out one of the many interesting features of the historical village near Rahden, just outside of Minden, Germany, visited by a group of 44 from this community. Dr. Franke is the county curator of historic buildings and sites. Fluent in English, he was the group's guide for a day as they visited the historic village and a number of restored windmills. The building in the background is typical of the structures in the museum setting, but also could be found throughout the region, still being used today.

After thanking our special guide, Dr. Franke, the group retired for the day.

Next week: a report on our second day, touring south through restored villages and lunch in a castle.

Few early nominations in Lutterworth

By late last week there were only six candidates seeking the five positions on Lutterworth Township Council.

Carol Puffer, who has served one term as Deputy Reeve, has announced that she will be running for the position of Reeve in the November 14 elections. Bill Valentine, in turn, has expressed his intentions of dropping down from Reeve to run for one of the three positions as councillor.

Incumbent councillors Elizabeth Wright and Lisa Mercer both intend to seek re-election, while councillor Al Stott has announced he will not be running again. Jim McMahon was the only candidate nominated for the position of Deputy Reeve by late last week.

Don Grozelle will be making a run for council.

Cheryl Murdoch will once again be seeking the position of Lutterworth Township Trustee on the Haliburton County Board of Education.

Potential candidates have until 5 p.m. today to submit their nomination papers to the municipal office.

Burgess boys best bashers

There were close to one hundred drivers involved in the annual Kinsmen Demolition Derby at the Minden Fair grounds on October 9, but in the final crunch, the Burgess family kept their motors running the longest.

The fairgrounds were packed with spectators throughout the day as the cars smashed and crashed, squealed and roared. But in the end, after all the heats were finished, there was only one car running and that belongs to Dony Burgess of Minden.

Burgess, who is a relative rookie to this sport, won $1,000 for his successful efforts. In the final heat, he outcrashed both his elder brother Lorne, and his father, Dave. Lorne finished in second place while Dave took third.

The Burgess name is not new to the Kinsmen

Derby. In the past six years, Dave has taken top spot three times.

Representatives of the Kinsmen Club were very pleased with this year's Derby. Kinsmen President Andy Poldas, called it a great success and thanked all the participants. He also thanked Garth Horsley, Rick Harding, Gary Holland and the Minden Fire Department for their help.

CRUNCH

The bleachers were filled with spectators during the Annual Demolition Derby put on by the Minden Kinsmen Club on the Thanksgiving weekend. Out on the field there was plenty of crushing action and on several occasions, firefighters were called in to extinguish small fires. There were close to three hundred drivers in this year's derby but the top of the heap, were the Dony, Lorne and Dave Burgess of Minden.

Kerrio agrees to meet water levels committee

Ontario's Minister of Natural Resources, Vince Kerrio, is willing to meet with the representatives of the Haliburton Highlands Water Levels Management Committee to help iron out the problems caused by the Trent-Severn Waterways.

Committee chairman

Harry Davis said he has spoken with Victoria-Haliburton MPP John Eakins who is arranging a meeting with Kerrio. Although the waterway itself is controlled by a branch of the federal government, the province will have to be involved if there is to be an expansion of the reservoir capacity.

The only foreseeable solution to the hardships caused by the varying water levels in Haliburton lakes is to increase the reservoir capacity of the waterway. County Council hopes this can be done by flooding a selected piece of Crown land.

Davis says the co-operation offered by Eakins and Kerrio is encouraging. The next attack will be with the federal government, he said. "We will be working on (Victoria-Haliburton MP) Bill Scott to see what can be done there."

Being first

directions

by Edward Moll

Ben Johnson. Free Trade. Election time here and south of the border. The rise of a new generation of aboriginal peoples who are no longer prepared to take the government guff of ignoring their entitlement to land of their own.

These items have in the news lately have caught my attention and no doubt yours. Though all of these things seem unrelated, with the exception of the free trade debate and the elections, there really is something in all of these events.

They all reflect our insatiable desire to be first.

From the time we begin to remember, people around us have drilled into our conscious and subconscious beings that to be first is, if not the most important thing, then very, very high on the list of our priorities. From possession of the latest Fisher-Price toy to owning a prime piece of waterfront cottage property, from wearing the latest fashion trend to being the purest church, we have succeeded in dividing our lives and our society into those who have, and those who wish they had.

The 1988 Olympics will have only one name to remember because we didn't want Ben to be first so much as we wanted to be first. So when he fell from grace, we felt dragged down along with him, instead of the other way around. The Free Trade debate is about gaining a competitive edge in the United States market economy, an economy that has the largest foreign debt in the history of the world, a debt so large, no one wants to talk about it. It will be like marrying someone so deeply in hock that you will end up paying with the partner. However, for the sake of more money, more pottage, and being first, we are happily willing to ignore that.

The rising protest among the aboriginal peoples of Canada, from the Haidas in the west to the Innu in the east, arises from an historical assumption that when we first came to this land, the original inhabitants didn't matter. After all, weren't our history books written from the perspective that the New World was first "discovered" by so-and-so? The rising native frustration is with a government and industry that wishes to remain first in its own priorities rather than taking into consideration the patent historical situation of the native peoples pre-eminent right to their own land.

However, we want to be first, and therefore we stall, and litigate, and investigate, and try to put on a lid on seething anger.

I may be accused by those who would say, "What do you want, then? Mediocrity? Lack of originality? Just plain laziness? No incentive?"

I would have to say no. What I am looking for is an alternative to our desire for being first that puts a goal ahead of people, that puts the bottom line ahead of our children's future, that puts the desire of position and prestige ahead of care and wholeness. I am looking for something that Jesus talked about when he said, "The last shall be first, and the first shall be last."

Has anyone seen it?

The ease of flight

longer, and a Great-horned Owl and a Barn Owl look curiously out at us.

In June a painted turtle basks at the bottom of the calendar and dragonflies flit. In July the facing page is absorbed in a serious consideration of avian bathing habits. Anyone who observes birds has certainly noted the voluptuous pleasure they take in bathing. Here are directions for making and locating a bath in your garden. There are also suggestions for providing means for a dustbath, and a delightful drawing of a bird giving itself up to the pleasures of wallowing in the dust.

October highlights waterfowl migration with the dignified Canvasback swimming at the top of the page. A pintail plants its feet deliberately in the middle of the calendar. The top part of the sheet answers some questions about hibernation. Where do garter snakes go? What animals are true hibernators and which ones are part-time hibernators?

Presiding over the year on the cover of the calendar, an enormous bullfrog sits next to a sinuously twining bindweed which is being attacked by a diving hummingbird. The 1989 calendar is available for $12.50, postage and handling included, from the Federation of Ontario Naturalists at 355 Lesmill Road, Don Mills, Ontario M3B 2W8.

For anyone on your Christmas list who is interested in nature this calendar would make an ideal gift, and unlike most calendars will not lose its value when the year ends. Also available from the FON is a sample Christmas card containing an order form. Once again Robert Bateman has provided the painting for the card. This year three dark-eyed juncos hop about in the snow in front of a woodpile, leaving in their wake delicate hieroglyphs on the snow. Ask us for a sample card. Imagine having your Christmas card and gift problems solved early. The sale of both card and calendar help us to continue our commitment to protect and increase awareness of Ontario's natural areas and wildlife.

Three step down in Stanhope

Stanhope Township Council will have at least three new faces at the table following next month's municipal election.

Depute Reeve Elvin Johnson and councillors Jock Mavor and Jim Harrison have all announced they will not seek re-election.

Reeve Harry Davis says

he will be running again and councillor Ann Barker has announced her intention of running for the position of Deputy Reeve.

New candidates who plan to run for council include Fred Gardner, Barb Nangle and Elinor Harrison. Curtis Eastmure has indicated he will challenge Leroy Eager for the one position of Stanhope trustee on the school board.

The deadline for nominations is 5 p.m. today (Monday) so there could very well be other candidates in the running. The Times will publish a complete list of candidates in next week's paper.

Stanhope Township voters will have a chance to meet the people running for office during an all-candidates meeting, which is slated for 8 p.m. on October 29 at the Stanhope Community Centre.

The final meeting of this council will be on November 9. The time has been changed to 7 p.m. for that meeting.

Ann Barker, who hopes to soon become Stanhope Township's Deputy Reeve signs her name to Fred Gardner's nomination papers while Reeve Harry Davis looks on. Davis has announced that he will seek re-election as Township Reeve.

Fearrey to seek re-election

In a surprise move, Dysart et al Reeve Murray Fearrey announced late last week that he has changed his mind and will be seeking re-election in the upcoming municipal elections.

Fearrey, who has been the Reeve of the township since 1975, says his change of heart is due to a number of factors, not the least of which is maintaining a degree of continuity on council. He said a number of present council members have decided not to seek re-election.

After more than a decade as Reeve, Fearrey said he was tiring of the responsibility of this position accompanied with the management of his business. If he is re-elected he says he will establish one night a week when he will be available to deal with the public. He said he does not want to be dealing with municipal business when he should be devoting time to his own business.

By last Friday Fearrey was the only candidate with intentions of running for Reeve. There will, however, be a race between Bill Davis and Sid Cooper for the position of Deputy Reeve.

Nominated for council in Ward One are Joan Irish, Bob Nichol Jr. In Ward Two the lone candidate on Friday was Robert English. Nominated for Ward Four were Brian Watts and John Thompson. Glen Hodgson was the lone candidate nominated for Ward Five.

Potential candidates have until 5 p.m. today to file their nomination papers at the municipal office.

Candidates nominated for the seats on the Haliburton County Board of Education were Len Salvatori, Lynn Craigmyle, Wayne Wood and Nancy Stinson.

Hydro announces plan to curb its use of herbicide sprays

Beginning next spring, Ontario Hydro will stop the broadcast spraying of herbicides on brush under power lines along roadsides and near residential lots, Hydro Vice-President Hal Wright announced October 7 at the utility's Muskoka Area office in Bracebridge.

"Our customers have been telling us they are concerned about the use of herbicides," Wright said. "As a result, we are going to introduce alternative ways of controlling vegetation that grows into power lines. Along roadsides and near residences, crews will begin cutting the fast-growing trees that interfere with power lines, then selectively apply herbicides directly to the stumps to prevent regrowth."

"This program will reduce Hydro's use of herbicides by 35 per cent," Wright explained. "It is a start toward even further reductions in our use of herbicides. However, herbicides will still be needed, particularly on those cross-country, high voltage tower lines."

Hydro's continuing research into reducing herbicide use includes the development of new grass cover crops that inhibit tall, fast-growing brush, along with research into new tools and techniques for doing the work.

Debate set for Nov. 2

Haliburton County voters will have an opportunity to hear where the local candidates in the federal election stand on the issues during a debate slated for November 2 in Haliburton Village.

The debate, co-sponsored by The Times and the Haliburton County Echo, will be held at the Dysart Community Centre and will start at 7:30 p.m. Details of the format are still being ironed out.

By last Friday both Liberal Candidate Bruce Glass and the likely NDP Candidate Cathy Vainio had agreed to participate in the debate. Conservative Candidate Bill Scott has been invited, although he had yet to respond to the invitation by press time.

The New Democratic Party is having their nomination meeting tonight at the Lindsay Legion.

Davis to challenge Cooper

The successful candidate for the position of Deputy Reeve in the municipality of Dysart et al in the last election, Bill Davis, has announced he intends to seek the position again. Davis, however, is not the incumbent, having resigned from the seat over what he considered to be conflict of interest.

Davis said he feels the conflict has been eliminated. At the time of his resignation, he was a full-time employee of the Dysart Ambulance Service managed by the municipality. Since then, management of the service has been taken over by the municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden. Davis also noted that he is no longer a full-time employee of the service.

When he resigned Sid Cooper was appointed to the post of Deputy Reeve. Cooper has announced that he will be seeking re-election to the position in November.

Davis said there are a number of issues facing the Dysart council in the coming term. Among the matters he feels are most important are water levels, the environment and the municipality's official plan.

He said the municipality should work with the Ministry of Natural Resources to obtain better water level control. He notes the MNR has a vital interest in the process, since fish stocks in the Highlands rely on certain water levels to ensure natural regeneration. He said it isn't over-fishing which is depleting the stock of lake trout in area lakes, but rather the impact on fluctuating water levels.

Davis said the time to seriously consider the recycling of local wastes had arrived. He noted the area dumps are choked with garbage and suggested that recycling could spawn a major new industry for the area.

The candidate also says the municipality's official plan needs to be updated. He pointed out that the municipality has undergone a period of rapid growth. He noted the introduction of condominiums in the municipality could occur soon and the official plan does not include provisions to deal with this concept of ownership, he claims.

Pumpkin is third in Ontario

Floyd Winger's talent at growing huge pumpkins has earned him the $50 prize for taking third place in the White Rose stores contest.

Winger, who recently took first place for his entry in the Horticultural Society pumpkin weigh-in with a 125-pound giant, said he was very surprised to hear he had won third place in the White Rose competition. The pumpkin he entered in that province-wide contest measured 76.5 inches in diameter.

To enter the White Rose contest, people must have purchased their seeds from one of the stores. The top prize is $1,000. Pumpkins are judged by size rather than weight.

Correction

Redmen tie LCVI, finish in first place

The HHSS senior soccer team battled LCVI to a 0-0 tie this past week, thereby clinching first place in the Kawartha West Division.

With just one game left to play in the regular season, the Redmen remain undefeated with a record of four wins and one tie.

In the first half of the LCVI game, the Redmen were up against a strong wind but managed to play even with LCVI goalkeeper Pat Casey making several good saves to keep Haliburton in the game.

In the second half, with the wind at their backs, the Redmen dominated the play and had several good scoring opportunities but could not get a goal. David Kinsella played goal in the second half and made a couple of key saves to shut out LCVI.

Once again, the midfield of Cecil Smith, Mark Sorenson, Kelly Youngdale, Paddy Taylor, Terry Smith and Darryl Winder played very well, as did forwards Jan Haedicke, Jorge Romero and Darren Warburton.

Next week the Redmen play Fenelon Falls at Fenelon and await the results of other games this week and next. Haliburton will play a one game, sudden-death, playoff game against the second place team (as yet unknown) at their home field on Monday, October 24, starting at 2:00 p.m.

TSW navigation closes

Haliburton area reservoir lakes levels have begun to stabilize as Waterway staff begin to replace stoplogs on some lakes and we gain more co-operation from mother nature in terms of increased precipitation.

The average percentage declined to 34.2 per cent by October 3, down only 2.1 per cent from the previous week. This is 12 per cent below the 10-year average.

Flows in the tributary rivers and creeks to the canal system are at the required minimum and should remain there as winter stoplogs are set at reservoir dams.

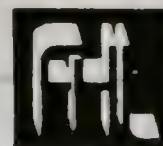

Otonabee River flow has been maintained near 28 cubic metres per second for the past week. Kawartha Lakes levels generally have declined and should remain down a few centimetres from their full levels.

This is the final newsletter for this navigation season. In an attempt to update the addresses of new cottager's association representatives and reduce the number of copies sent to improper addresses, please send a written request to this office for continued service next year.

Stanhope council explores recycling options

Despite the urgency expressed by Haliburton County residents to have a recycling program established, Stanhope Township is being urged by the Ministry of the Environment to first conduct a feasibility study.

In recent months, council has been collecting the information it needs to set up a system that would allow residents to have their household waste recycled. Now, though, the ministry has suggested that Stanhope should enlist other neighbouring municipalities to undertake a joint feasibility study.

Councillor Jock Mavor was not impressed with this suggestion. He said council is fully aware that recycling in such a small township is not going to be economical.

The township will soon be closing one of its landfill sites and a county-wide waste management study will not be complete for another three years. Therefore, there is some urgency to improve waste management in the township.

At last Wednesday's meeting, council also received a letter from Don Coates of Muskoka Containerized Services (MCS) which provided some encouragement.

Coates is starting a "blue box" collection program for about 12,000 homes in the Muskoka area. In addition, MCS is building a "major recycling-processing centre, supplying recycling containers to a client north of Stanhope." MCS is developing and constructing a "one-stop rural recycling centre" and is about to institute a commercial cardboard recycling project in Huntsville.

In his letter, Coates told council he would be willing to assist the township in its aim to recycle. Council hopes to invite Coates to a meeting when this can be discussed in more depth.

There was a large turnout at the meeting of the County of Haliburton Association for a Naturally Good Environment on October 7 in J.D. Hodgson Senior Elementary School in Haliburton Village. Those present expressed a serious desire to reduce the amount of household waste by establishing a county-wide recycling program. Leading the discussion were Nyle Ludolph from a waste management consulting firm, Marook Sidhwa from the Ministry of Environment, Don Shortreed, chairman of the county waste management committee and R.D. Lawrence, author.

Farming is an important part of the two counties

by John Eakins, M.P.P.

Farming is such an important part of Victoria and Haliburton Counties. Many people derive their income from farms and many industries are farm-related.

The contributions made by Ontario's food producers benefit all of us. Nearly 150,000 people work on more than 72,000 farms in Ontario while their produce reaped more than $5.5 billion, they put nearly $3.5 billion for goods and services back into the ceremony.

Did you know that at the turn of the century, one Ontario farmer could only produce enough food to feed 12 people? With ever increasing efficiency, a

Candidates slow to file for election

As is usual with municipal elections, the candidates are holding back on filing their nomination papers with the municipal offices. A survey of clerks throughout the county Friday afternoon, appeared to show only limited interest in the upcoming election, even though the rumour mill is churning at high speed.

In addition to the reports on candidates found elsewhere in this week's edition of The Times, the following have filed their nomination papers at various municipal offices:

Bicroft: For council Jack Todd (I), Gary Simmons (I), Hans Stevens (I) and Ainsley Dickenson.

Cardiff: For Reeve, Ross Duncan; for Councillor, Ronald Milne, Ross Duncan, Paul Spent and Jack Johnson; for Board of Education, Linda Mumford(I).

Glamorgan: For Councillor, Doug Andrews, for Board of Education, Pauline Parnell.

Monmouth: For Councillor, Jim Deterling, Gary Stoughton (I).

Sherborne et al: For Councillor, Joyce McKey (I), Hans Leibman, Lyle Aubin.

Snowdon: For Councillor, Jack Hills (I), Ron Burk (I), Mike Carpenter; for Board of Education, Janet Donnery.

Galway Cavendish: For Deputy Reeve Bill Holstock (I), Marilyn Weitzel; for Councillor Oliver Lloyd, Chuck Leggett and Peter Franzen.

The War Amputations of Canada a tradition of amputees helping amputees War Amps Chief Executive H. Clifford Chadderton and Champ Karl de Wit have something in common — they're both amputees. The War Amps was first established in 1918 to assist amputee veterans. Now the war amputees pass their many years of experience along to the younger generation through the Child Amputee (CHAMP) Program. Champs receive artificial limbs, counselling and financial assistance.

What is our future? When there are no longer war amputees, we will become the Canadian Amputees Foundation. Graduates of our CHAMP Program will carry on The War Amps tradition of amputees helping amputees.

The War Amputations of Canada, National Headquarters, 2827 Riverside Drive, Ottawa, Ontario K1V 0C4.

The War Amputations of Canada is a registered charitable organization operated by amputees for amputees on a non-profit basis. The War Amps does not receive government funds. Acid rain report

The following report on precipitation events was recorded at the Ministry of Environment acid rain testing station in Dorset and compiled by Environment Canada. The following report covers the period from October 2 to 8.

- October 2, 6 mm of rain, pH 4.7, from West Virginia, Ohio and southern Ontario.
- October 4, 24 mm of rain, pH 4.7, from north-western Quebec, and eastern Ontario.
- October 5, 3 mm of rain, pH 4.9, from central Ontario and eastern Ontario.
- October 7, 1 mm of rain, pH 4.3, from north-eastern Ontario, central Ontario and Lake Huron.

Environmental damage is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. Readings of 4.0 pH or less are considered dangerous. The lower the reading, the more acidic the precipitation.

Working toward a change

by Ron Reid
Enrichment Class Participant
Archie Stouffer Elementary School

On the chilly evening of Friday, October 7, at J.D. Hodgson Senior Elementary School in Haliburton Village, a meeting was held by the County of Haliburton Association for a Naturally Good Environment (CHANGE). There were guest speakers from Haliburton County Council, the Ministry of Environment and Ontario Multi Material Recycling Inc. They held the floor for a total of 20 or 30 minutes.

Don Shortreed, Chairman of County Council's Environment Committee, opened the meeting with a talk about the dumps and what is happening to them. He explained that during the summer months the local fire department was called out many times to extinguish small fires. Therefore, gates were installed and dump hours were posted. People got mad and objected to the gates being closed. They started throwing garbage beside the dump gates or on the road, causing other people the hassles of cleaning up the garbage. Shortreed stressed very strongly that compost piles should be used. He also said the issue of these questions would be brought up at the next county council meeting.

Next, Marouc Sideur of the Ministry of the Environment talked about their recycling program and the blue boxes. Lots of people wondered about the price of the boxes and the cost for pick up. One lady said she would put all of her recyclables in a container if one was put at each local dump. Also, Marouc talked about the pick up in the cities and their society. She liked this idea because people do not want to be different from their neighbours. She stated that 37 - 40% of garbage can be recycled and the garbage problem would be reduced. 8,000,000 tonnes of garbage are taken to the local dumps in Toronto in a day. Every person produces one kg of garbage every day, so Minden would produce about 2,900 kg of garbage every day.

Minden alone,
produces 2,900 kg of garbage every day of the week.

Did you know that for every tonne of newspaper recycled that you can save 19 trees? All of the garbage produced in Toronto each day is equal to the amount of a line of trucks from here to St. John's, Newfoundland and back to Montreal. If this much garbage is being produced, can anything be done to reduce this garbage?

To help this program, municipalities can talk about the idea of the MOE and talk to their recycling chairperson about the Four R's program: Reduction, Re-use, Re-cycling and Recovery.

Each recycling expert stressed very strongly that the use of composts is in demand. You can compost such materials as: food leftovers, vegetables and fruit, coffee grounds, nut shells, straw, hay, and leaves and grass. Composting is safe, easy and very little money is involved in it. It is also not polluting and it is helpful to your garden.

We benefit from recycling. It helps minimize garbage for disposal; it saves energy and natural resources; reduces pollution, and creates more jobs.

A way that you can help with recycling is to take bottles and cans to your nearest depot station, which you can find out about by calling the Recycling Council of Ontario Toll Free: 1-800-387-5479. Also you can write to:

Environment Ontario
Public Information Centre

135 St. Clair Ave. West
Toronto, Ontario
M4V 1P5

or call 416-323-4321.

Remember, recycling is smart do your part! Look for the recycling signs on the bottles and the cans!

Also the Environment is willing to fund municipalities for recycling projects because it is educational and a very important topic. We do not have a depot yet. Let's work together to make one.

Weed control fines are increasing farmer can now feed 120 people.

On an entirely different subject, fines under the Weed Control Act to improve the control of noxious weeds have been increased.

For a first offence, fines are increasing to between $500 to $1000 and for subsequent offences, fines will range from $1,000 to $2,000.

The laws are intended to reduce the infestation of agricultural and urban properties with weed from neighbouring properties and help eliminate hazards from weeds such as rag-weed and poison ivy.

It will also help reduce plant diseases by controlling alternate hosts: for example, cereal rust caused by common barley and European buckthorn.

Prior to the recent amendment, the first offence fine was $50 maximum and a subsequent offence carried a fine of between $50 to $100. Besides the increased levels of fines, the act was changed in other ways, as well.

Under the new legislation, local municipalities will report the names of local inspectors to the chief inspector, who is appointed, along with district inspectors, by the minister.

If an inspector is refused entry to a property, he or she may apply to a justice of the peace for a warrant under the act.

Trick or treat for UNICEF

To most children, Hallowe'en means candy and treats, a trick or two along the way, and finally a bedtime story with ghosts and goblins. To others, Hallowe'en is a time to help UNICEF's children. Last year alone, over one million children across Canada, raised $2.7

HARRISON TRAIL: A perfect place to take a walk

The "Harrison Woods Nature Trail", provides a colourful walk in early October.

After laying out a very interesting kilometre long walking trail through his eight hectares of rolling woodland just west of Carnarvon, Ross Harrison, a well known resident of Carnarvon, donated this beautiful parcel of land to the Province of Ontario in 1975 to be open to school children and the public in general.

This trail, now maintained by the Ministry of Natural Resources, is accessible from a parking lot situated on the north side of Hwy. 118 - about 100 metres west of Highway 35 at Carnarvon.

After a short walk westerly along the road right-of-way, the pathway meanders through stands of mature mixed hardwood and conifer, where many tree species have been identified with small metal plaques. It also traverses areas of second growth hardwoods and a 23 year old red pine plantation. At one point it follows the historic Peterson Colonization Road for a short distance.

A number of wildlife species may be encountered, but it must be remembered that animals here in their natural habitat often disappear with the approach of noisy humans.

It is hoped that many local school groups as well as the general public will take advantage of this very pleasant, easily accessible, and educational walk with nature.

Remember - take only pictures and leave only tracks.

Analyze development carefully

by Marion Strebig
Federation of Ontario
Naturalists

How important to us are our surroundings? As development and "planning" reshape our landscape, are we willing to fight to save small neighbourhood woodlots, wetlands and ancient trees?

Recently I visited Thornton Bales, a mature woodlot on the Oak Ridges Moraine north of Metropolitan Toronto. The moraine, formed from glacial debris, is a ridge which runs from the Niagara Escarpment to Trenton. Although this particular woodlot is not ancient (few trees in Southern Ontario escaped the axe or the chainsaw) it has a number of large trees which are more than 100 years old. Woodlots of this quality are uncommon close to Metropolitan Toronto and are certainly not replaceable in our lifetime.

The woods sweeps down the steep sides of the ridge into a valley moist from the slope seepage. Trees on this slope soar up like pillars to a vault which is the leafy canopy of oaks, maples and beeches. Underneath this canopy grows a rich variety of understory plants. Along with the saplings of the parent trees there is Christmas fern, whose fronds will still show green next spring when the melting snow uncovers them. White baneberry, festooned with clusters of black-dotted white berries which give it its common name of doll's eye, gleams in the muted light of this densely canopied section of the woods.

Farther down on the cooler slopes large hemlocks replace the beech and maple, and in the rich bottomland black walnut grows. Signs of other seasons bloom is everywhere. There are dark glossy leaves of the hepaticas, carpets of Canada violet leaves and the heavy red berry cones of the Jack-in-the-pulpit.

This is a natural woodlot in the sense that to date fallen trees have been allowed to lie where they fall, and snags have remained the domain of woodbeetles and shelf fungi and woodpeckers, whose excavations provide nesting sites for other creatures like the white-breasted nuthatches which were honking all around us. One log across the trail was decorated with large colonies of delicately fluted cream fungi, one of the many organisms which will eventually cause the log to crumble back to earth. However, this natural forest may be about to change.

This particular woodlot falls under the jurisdiction of the South Lake Simcoe Conservation Authority and would seem to be safe from the forces of change all around it. Not so. The conservation authority decided that the woodlot must be managed, which means logged. Although the logging will bring the authority minimal financial return, the cut, which will be 30% by volume of the wood in the lot, approaches the extent of a commercial cut, and will change the very complexion of the forest.

Strenuous objections to the logging have induced the authority to have the job done in the old way - in the winter, with horses to drag out the logs. This simply evades the basic question. Why is there to be a cut at all? Since there is no restriction on the diameter of trees to be cut, trees that have been around since before Confederation will disappear.

At present there is a wide gap between the philosophy of the mainline forester who treats trees as a crop to be cut at their Minden's German cousins recently completed their Canadian visit at Hart Lodge where they spent some time before leaving for the Airport.

On arrival at the Lodge, and after a Minden and Hart Lodge greeting by the owners John Mateer and Bob White, they all sat down to a sumptuous dinner. The evening entertainment was a musical trio and a sing song.

The following day they were up early and off to do some sight seeing with tour guide Betty Dionne. They were amazed by the vast and hilly countryside. The highlight of their trip was the white water and the vertical Minden sign.

The same evening a reception was held in Hart Hall where presentations were made to the group by our Deputy Reeve Bern Berry who was questioned again about the Minden vertical sign. The question was answered in that Minden likes to be different. Verne Graham (Councillor) noted that he had met a Father and Son - The son being here in 1987 and the Father in 1988. Also present at the reception was Jack Brezina who delighted the visitors when they found out he was on his way to Germany the next day. Also present were Mr. and Mrs. Schiefbaum, Manager of the Haliburton Forest and Wildlife Preserve as well as Mr. and Mrs. Pat Waddell. Representing the Chamber of Commerce was the Manager Shirley Rapson with her husband Ken.

Alexs and Hilda Aigner from Lutterworth Estates were the official translators and spent the afternoon and evening with everyone at the Lodge and made a lot of new friends as well as renewed old acquaintances. Alexs and Hilda told the group they could not return to Germany - they had lived in Canada too long and in particular Minden.

The Minden Germany Group had only one wish on leaving and that was that they should have been in Minden a lot longer.

Hi Readers:

The weather is beautiful before winter comes along. Doris took us for a drive to Dorset and the lookout tower on Friday last. It was a lovely day and the colours were really nice.

Our tea party Thursday afternoon was by the ladies from Haven of Rest. We really enjoyed the food and the singalong after. The singsong was led by Olga and Grace Coburn. The friendship was much appreciated. We hope they will favour us again. Thank you, ladies.

Angus Coulter had a visit with his son Glen and daughter from Ottawa and yesterday his daughter Margaret Miller came to visit him. Jean Taylor spent Monday with her niece and family. I had Thanksgiving Dinner at Haliburton with my granddaughter and family, Roger and Debbie Dart, Devon and Lauren. Turkey dinner was held for the residents October 11 at Hyland Crest. Maron Rose was out for dinner with her son yesterday and Mrs. Casey was out for lunch on Tuesday with her daughter Jean. Mr. Morley is spending the weekend with his family in Toronto. Winnie Barnum has gone for a two week trip to British Columbia.

Sorry to report Violet Thornett is in the hospital, do hope it won't be long before she is home again. I am glad to say Nancy Carefoot is coming along nicely after surgery in St. Michael's hospital in Toronto. We wish her a speedy recovery and hope she will be home soon.

October birthdays at Hyland Crest are Bob Mitchell, Lucy Burgess, Tryphina Jenkins, Lula Ferrill and Etta Brentnell.

Winners of the turkey draw were Linda English, Ruth Griffin, Isabel Keefer and Debbie Dart.

A little thing is a little thing, but faithfulness in little things is a very great thing. Now, that's worth remembering.

Wide gap in philosophies

"optimum" growth, and the average citizen who views forests as wildlife habitat, and places of quiet recreation, and as refuges from the stress of modern living. Often the forester's view has prevailed in Ontario, and has largely shaped its landscape. Even the advice given by the Government to landowners seeking to reforest their property is to plant trees like a crop in tidy rows. One disillusioned man who received this advice from the local office of the Ministry of Natural Resources commented, "That's not a forest. What would want to live there?"

As they become more scarce, areas of old growth forest are increasingly important. They offer greater diversity of species and size and age of trees than even-age artificially regenerated forests. Older growth forests also offer the opportunity to study the progression of a natural forest and soil formation processes which have not been subjected to repeated tilling and fertilization. Trees which exceed the now normal 60 to 90 year cutting cycles give us information about the past and enable us to reconstruct forest history and climate patterns. The 700 year-old white cedars recently discovered on the cliffs of the Niagara Escarpment at Kelso

Conservation Area are expected to yield crucial information about Ontario's past climatic patterns.

The naturalists group which opposed this specific cut used forester's language to point out that "management" of the woodlot as a natural forest ecosystem is a valid form of management, and one which would be well suited to a conservation authority.

"WHERE THE ACTION IS"

We Appreciate Your DRIVING CAREFULLY

The quest for a mate

Aside from being the most colourful season in the Algonquin Region, fall is a very important time in the life of a moose. The breeding season or rut is generally felt to peak in this area by about the third week in September and it triggers some very peculiar activities among moose.

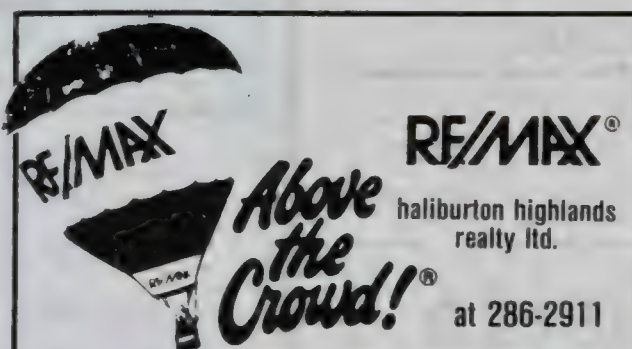

This normally shy, retiring animal becomes very aggressive and active in its quest for a mate. Cows call at dawn with a plaintive bawl that can be heard for several kilometres on clear frosty mornings. Bulls will respond with a deep grunt and "come a-runnin'" in search of the cow. On the way, they stop to "thrash" shrubbery to polish their shiny new antlers and establish their presence in the home territory. Sometimes other bulls responding to the same cow call may be encountered. Generally, bulls with smaller antlers give way to larger males, but if a bull of similar antler size appears, then these two giants spar or fight to establish dominance.

Bull moose in the Algonquin Region can surpass 500 kg (1100 lbs) so the ensuing battle may be impressive indeed. While sparring seldom results in injury to either bull, occasionally the antlers become locked and both animals will die. This September a bull was found dead near Lake Opeongo in Algonquin Park, with a large hole in his side, thought to have been inflicted by an antler tine, probably as a result of sparring.

Bull moose may spend up to a week with a single cow to ensure that breeding takes place when she is receptive. If the egg (ovum) is not fertilized within a 24 hour period, then it will be shed and a further 28 days must elapse before the cow will release another egg and be receptive once again. It is important for cows to be bred as early in the cycle as possible so that calves will be born early the following spring and attain good growth prior to their first winter.
